On A Busy Line

When you hear others talking on the line after the operator has given you your connection it means that the operator has accidentally connected you on a busy line.

This does not occur very often, but when it does it is not the part of courtesy to order the other parties to "get off the line." The proper way is to work your receiver hook slowly up and down to attract the operator's attention and then tell her about it.

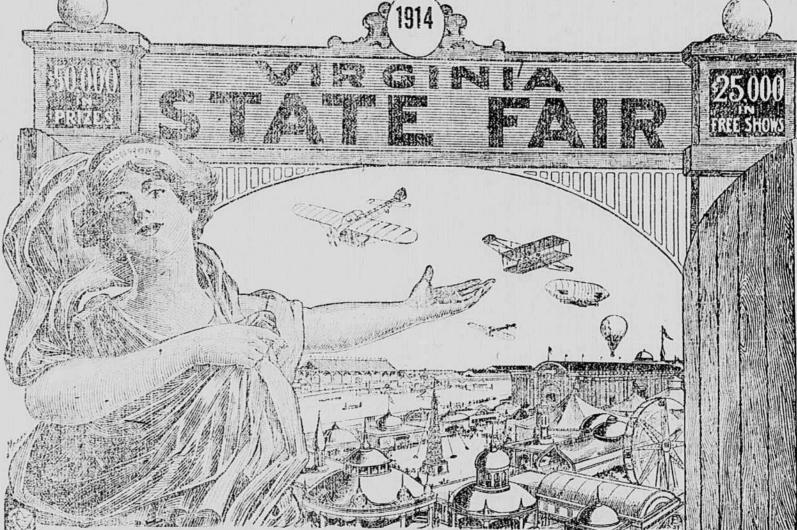

Work the hook slowly-Don't jiggle it.
